

I would strongly discourage the use of cell phones during flight. Outside of safety implications, on board an aircraft is about the only place you can get away from them. As a frequent traveler, I appreciate not having to listen to another shouting into a phone while trying to catch a bit of sleep, indulge in a book or do some work. Please continue to enforce the regulations concerning cell phone usage in flight. The traveling public will be appreciative.